

Welcomes

*David Brown, former host of NPR's Marketplace, Emmy-award winning broadcaster Simon Marks of Feature News Story, and documentary producers Kristin McHugh and Keith Porter
Presenting the story
Behind*

*Monday, May 18, 2009
5:00 p.m. to 7:00 p.m.
Light Refreshments from 5:00-
5:30
Charity Earley Room,
Sinclair Community College,
Building 12
444 West Third Street*

Join the producers of this new radio documentary prepared by the Stanley Foundation in cooperation with KQED in San Francisco and KUT in Austin for an exploration of the challenges India now faces in its quest for superpower status. Nuclear-armed, IT-driven, and export-oriented, India is battling vast social inequalities as well as the consequences of the global financial crisis, and the November 2008 terror attacks in Mumbai. What does this mean for India? For the United States? For the world?

Cost: $10 for DCOWA Members, $12 for Non-Members

Reservations:

*937-229-2319, marshahz@notes.udayton.edu or
Mail to DCOWA: P.O. Box 9190, Dayton, OH 45409*

This program is made possible by the generous funding provided by The Stanley Foundation.